

The Turing Trust - Finances

The Turing Trust practices a policy of “Full Disclosure” whereby the accounts of the Turing Trust will be posted on the official website and updated regularly so the general public can view any activities of the Trust and its financial actions. Furthermore upon request full details of the accounts of the trust must be submitted to any member of the general public. In order to prove beyond reasonable doubt the trust will also make public evidence of the work that is done with the funds such as articles and publications detailing the progress of any funds that were directed towards a particular purpose in the trust.
